

WHO ARE WE?

P.A.C.T. is a group of community researchers (that include both college researchers and community members) working together to inspire participation in studies involving children and families.

P.A.C.T. PROJECTS

- FAN-C – Learning how neighborhoods impact parenting, families and adolescents.
- C.A.R.E. – Learning about how to best support mothers and babies.
- BRAVE – Developing a culturally-sensitive approach to prevent anxiety in young children.
- Child Attention & Learning Project – Understanding why some children have different ways of learning.

P.A.C.T. GOALS

- Projects that reflect community values
- Community members provide real input on projects as they are developed.
- Increase community interest and awareness in PACT projects
- Meaningful ways for Penn State to give back to the community.
